

'Marine Accidents – The problems and the solutions'

A topical, 'value-for-money' one day seminar

Advance Notice – Please mark your diaries!

Friday 9th November 2007 on board M.V SuperStar Aquarius alongside at Ocean Terminal, Hong Kong

Following on from a series of very successful one day seminars run since 1999, the Branch's 2007 seminar addresses an issue of increasing concern – Marine accidents.

Ten years on from the implementation of the ISM code, are we really benefiting from the improvements that safety management codes should bring. If not, what is going wrong? Are the industry manning and training systems really working? How should STCW be updated? How is the industry dealing with marine risk management? What are the findings of accident investigation teams around the world? Hear what our panel of international speakers has to say and make your own views known on this important subject.

Our international panel of speakers include:

Charles Anderson – Anchor Marine Services, New York (Marine Accidents in the USA)

Chris Haughton – Consultant to Videotel Marine International, London (STCW).

Bob Rainier – IDESS, Philippines (Training).

Tim Wilkins - Intertanko. Singapore (Accident prevention) and many more!
